

Description: These active, hands-on courses explore the concepts of music and movement as tools to enhance learning in a variety of educational settings. Through play and improvisation, skill building and practice, participants will use rhythm, play, dance and song to build brain power and promote creativity and critical thinking skills. Connections between math, science, reading, language arts, social studies and visual art will be explored via dynamic activities. All experiences will be brain-based and model the conceptual teaching approach. Participants will be presented with resources and research tailored to support their teaching efforts.

This course is designed for all who wish to enhance their teaching and student learning through music & movement:

About the Instructor

Kerri Lynn Nichols has taught integrative arts in education K-12 for 27 years in the public and private sectors. A prolific children's composer, author and recording artist, she teaches graduate courses across the country and abroad in music, movement and brain-based learning. Kerri Lynn is a frequent presenter at state and national conferences and an adjunct professor for several universities. Her work includes inservices in schools, assemblies, music and dance integration with academics and choreography for dance companies. Kerri Lynn's eclectic background includes extensive experience in neurodevelopmental movement therapy, multicultural percussion, At-Risk education, vocal performance and creative management. She received her Orff certification from Santa Cruz and the University of Memphis and completed the International Course at the Orff-Institut in Salzburg, Austria. Kerri Lynn is certified in creative movement through the Summer Dance Institute (Seattle) where she is now on faculty. Kerri Lynn's workshops address the cognitive, social-emotional and motor needs of all students. An imaginative, playful and inspiring teacher, she nurtures her students to connect with music from the inside out.

About the Workshop:

- Daily Schedule

Each day we will sing, dance, drum & play through the concepts of music and movement as they relate to the brain and apply to learning. Ample time for reflection and discussion will be woven within the fabric of the day. All class experiences will emphasize creativity and collaboration.

- What To Bring

Wear loose, comfortable clothes, bring water bottle, a notebook and pen, your lesson plan book & materials, EALR's or curriculum for the year, musical instruments you play (if any) and a great sense of humor!

- Location

One hour south of Seattle, our site is nestled in the rural heart of Olympia, a serene community on the Puget Sound. You can walk around Capitol Lake, browse the Boardwalk or explore the beautiful Nisqually Wildlife Refuge.

- Rejuvenate

The workshop will give you a chance to relax and re-energize for the coming school year. Share ideas with others, plan your first week and have fun in the process!

- More Fun With A Friend

Sign-up for the course with a friend or colleague and receive a $25 discount! Work on lesson plans as a team and build a source of encouragement and support for the year.
